TALK OF ALDRICH, CANNON AND BALLINGER BEING ELIMINATED REPORTED

NOTHING DEFINITE KNOWN

Roosevelt Expresses No Definite Opinion of the Matter When Shown Dispatches.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 12.—The reports about the summer White House are today that the congressional investigation of the acts of Secretary Ballinger will begin in a report early in September, examining Ballinger and that immediately following that date, Mr. Ballinger will gracefully depart himself. The announcement last night of prospective cabinet changes is taken by insurgents as a decision of the administration to harmonize its differences with the progressives. It is reported also that the Aldrich statement of Thursday was by command of the President. This was given today that the administration is not backing Aldrich in his contest with the progressives.

Roosevelt's Views. Oyster Bay, Aug. 12.—Ex-President had no comment to make today on the dispatches from Beverly Mass., to the effect, Pres. Taft had decided on a readjustment of conditions within the inner sphere of republican party. He was interested greatly in the report that Senator Aldrich and Speaker Cannon will be relegated to a lesser position in the councils of the state, that Secy. Ballinger would retire Sept. 15, and Senator Crane assume a more important role in his relations with the administration. He refused, however, to make any comment.

Waukegan, Wis., Aug. 12.—While visiting her grandmother, two-year-old Alma Carlson drank the contents of a saucer she found on the table, let the dish break and then lay down for a nap. The broken dish caused an investigation and a physician was sent at work with a stomach pump to work out the fly poison she had drunk. The child's life was saved by a close watch.

Viroqua, Wis., Aug. 12.—Revenge a horse will be the vengeance of a family of Levi DeWitt, who was killed to death a few days ago. The family has refused to give away the animal and will let him shot to make sure that his death deals death to no more damage.

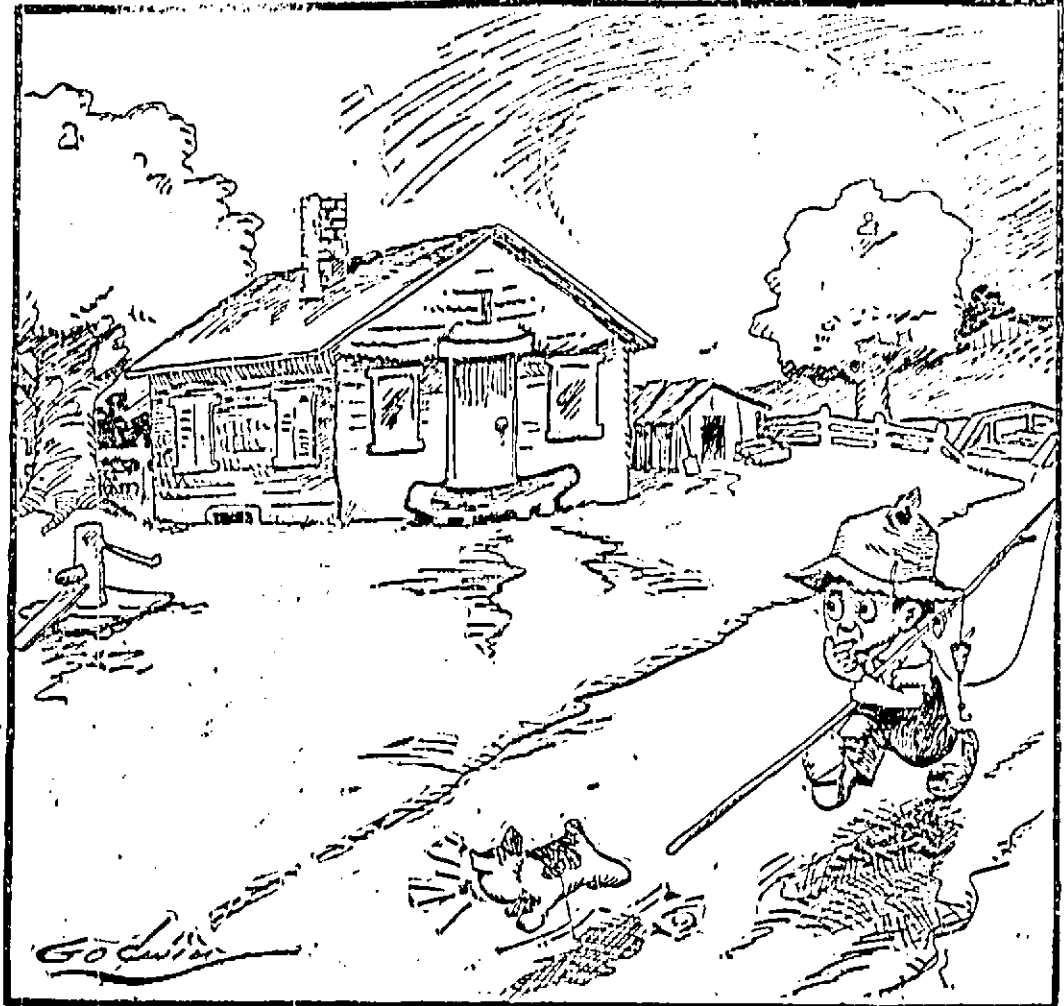

CLOSE WATCH KEPT OF ALL IMMIGRANTS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12.—The United States consular officers at Hamburg, and the consular and British posts are working under detailed instructions which require them to detain steerage passengers from the German infected districts in Russia and to detain their baggage prior to embarkation for the United States. These instructions were given on account of reports of many cases in Russia and the prospects of spread of cholera in Europe.

WASHINGTON FULL OF NEW PROJECTS

POLITICAL CHESS BOARD KEEPS MANY GUESSING AS TO OUTCOME.

Foreign Matters Keep Things Stirring in Many World Centers Who Watch Washington.

Washington, August 12.—The international chess board of diplomacy now presents an interesting problem, which according to some observers of the game may result in a readjustment of relations between England and the United States.

The United States no longer enjoys freedom of diplomatic isolation, but plunging into the Eastern affairs and to disintegrate their baggage prior to embarkation for the United States. The United States will be obliged to take the chief causes of this situation, the fear of the yellow peril in Europe and the participation of the United States in the affairs of the world on a more aggressive scale.

Contributory causes are the freedom of Germany in England and the present complications of European diplomacy which govern the attitude of the powers toward the far east.

though the change is in process, it is regarded as almost a revolution. It is regarded as almost a revolution. It is regarded as almost a revolution.

HOW THE PRESIDENT RECUPERATES FROM STRENUOUS LABORS

Captains, While He Has Few Spare Moments, Keep Him in Trim All the Time.

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 12.—The secret of President Taft's splendid health is out. It is his ability to take advantage of every opportunity to recuperate from his labors and to snatch a few minutes of refreshing sleep between activities.

Residents along the shore have heard him grow accustomed to the sudden appearance of an automobile with a big passenger just visible through the dust—and that passenger sound asleep. It is the President. The Executive often sleeps in his automobile going and coming from the Myopia golf links—that is when he makes the journey alone. The other day when the presidential party motored 71 miles over to see Miss Della Torrey, the aunt of the Chief Magistrate, the Executive slumbered peacefully nearly all the way back. The automobile went nearly 45 miles an hour the greater part of the way.

It is this faculty of the President to snatch a moment's rest at every available opportunity—the ability to throw off the cares of state and gain strength in little end-naps—that keeps the head of the nation strong and healthy despite his arduous labors. It is said that on his trip across the continent and back last fall the President would board his special train completely worn out after a speech or reception, drop into a chair and in a moment be fast asleep. Twenty minutes later, when a crowd in another station clamored for his appearance he would awake, fully refreshed.

Captain "Archib" Butt, military aide, has caught the habit. It is a common sight late in the evening to catch a glimpse of the presidential automobile under an electric light, and see both Executive Taft and Capt. Butt sound asleep. There are always two other occupants, however, who are very much awake—Robinson, the chauffeur, and the secret service operative.

Most people—including the President of the United States—come to the summer capital with the idea of enjoying the ocean breezes. Hundreds of obituary business men live in Beverly and "commute" to Boston daily.

It has remained for Joe Jung, proprietor of one of Beverly's lucky colored boarding establishments, and a countryman of Wu Ting Fang the wise, to reverse the usual order of things. Joe "commutes" to Beverly and lives in Boston.

"No life climate," he said to a group of newspaper correspondents, "I must have him good, climate really bad. I no staidier weather here. Boston, I mean better."

President Taft's clerks in the Executive Offices here are to have the luxury of a private bathing beach. Just back of the Pickering house, in which the offices are now located, and where the employees likewise eat and sleep, is a nice stretch of sand beach. The bathing would be fine if it were not for the builders at the water's edge. W. S. Homan, of the stenographic force was painfully injured by one of these stones when swimming recently. Secretary Norton promptly ordered a laborer to clear off the beach to prevent a repetition of such accidents and has promised his force a first-class bathing beach.

Being a clerk in the Executive office is rather a pleasant job these days. Last season the Executive Offices were located in the Board of Trade building, at the corner of Federal and Cabot streets. This year, however, Secretary Norton decided on a change. He leased the big house fronting on the ocean and turned the first floor into offices. On the second and third floors are enough rooms to accommodate all the clerks. The employees have clubbed together, employed a chef, and bought dishes and kitchen utensils.

There is a big porch and a fine lawn fronting on the ocean. The view is fine. (Continued on Page 8.)

IDAHO CITY IS IN DANGER FROM FIRE

Wallace Idaho Filled With Smoke And Forest Fires Rage Round About It.

Wallace, Idaho, Aug. 12.—This city is in danger of destruction from forest fires which are sweeping through the district so savagely that it is difficult to see a city block, and the city is facing a ruin of burning embers. Arrangements have been made to send all the women and children to safety. The towns of Taft, Stollen and Murray are doomed with Wallace if there is the slightest increase of the wind. Taft is already entirely surrounded by fire and it is difficult to see how the two hundred persons there can escape.

WATERS OF RIVER RISING RAPIDLY; THREATEN CITY

Tokio May Be Flooded by Rising Floods Which Have Submerged Lower Portion of City Already.

Tokio, Aug. 12.—The waters of the river Sumida are rising so rapidly that the Honjo and Fukusawa wards of Tokio are nearly completely submerged. Tens of thousands of persons are homeless and starving.

One of the three most important embankments guarding Tokio has broken. Should the second and third dykes break half the capital will be submerged. The destruction of the city of Tokio this afternoon is believed certain. The great dyke of the river is in immediate danger of breaking and the government today ordered hundreds of workmen to aid in the work of saving the structure.

Many of the suburbs are submerged. The situation throughout the empire as to the flood can not be exaggerated. Yokohama is practically submerged. Nagasaki is reported in the same condition and many other cities are rapidly being inundated by the swiftly rising waters. The wildest rumors of great loss of life are current and there is no way of seeing them, as the entire railroad service of the empire is out of order and telegraph wires are down everywhere. It is reported that several trains on the Tokio and other railroads have been submerged and that several hundred passengers have been drowned.

THIEF CONFESSES WHILE IN PRISON

Ohio Horse Thief Will Be Tried For Murder Of Sweetheart Upon Release From Prison.

Columbus, O., Aug. 12.—When Chas. Clayton, alias Riley Price is released from the Ohio State penitentiary here next Tuesday he will have little chance to enjoy his freedom, for a regulation has been granted for his return to Illinois to answer for a murder committed fifteen years ago. Clayton is now completing a four years' sentence for horse stealing in Franklin county. Some time after his arrival at the prison here he had confessed to the authorities that he had committed murder in Illinois many years ago and wanted to be tried for the crime in order that his conscience might be eased.

The crime in Illinois had been all but forgotten when a search of the records following Clayton's confession again brought the particulars to light. The victim of the murder was Clayton's sweetheart, a young lady belonging to an estimable family. Following a lovers' quarrel Clayton fired the girl to the woods, beat her to death with a club, according to his own confession, and then hid the remains in an abandoned well.

NEW KINGDOM IS LAUNCHED TODAY

MONTENEGRO TAKES ITS PLACE AMONG TOY MANARCHIES OF EUROPE

PRINCE NICHOLAS A KING

Powers Consent And Little Principality In The Black Mountains Becomes a Kingdom.

Vienna, Aug. 12.—A despatch from Cetinje, the capital of Montenegro, says: The simple folk of the Black Mountains are rejoicing greatly today after their own peculiar fashion, and the wealth resonant with the sharp and stunning reports of rifles, muskets and revolvers. Old and young, men and boys, gather in street, and village, and on the mountains, and by the crack and plink of firearms give expression of their joy as long as ammunition lasts. In the afternoon and evening, when the cartridges are spent, they will gather in front of the royal palace, a term which gives an inadequate idea of the sedate farmhouse occupied by the Montenegro ruler, and there they will shout their "zdravo" and even plunge into the measured excitement of the national dance, the "kolo." In this monotonous dance the men join hands and form a circle, some thirty strong, and gently swaying to and fro, sing in strophe and antistrophe, the praise of old Servian heroes, the most popular of these songs having been written by the present ruler.

If—and the hypothesis is wildly possible—there were some native witness of these rejoicings who did not know the cause of them, he would surely ask, "Is it because the Crown Prince's youngest-born has killed his first born? or, 'Has a new mail coach come down from Mount Lovcen?'" But the cause, as all the world knows, is that Montenegro has emerged from a principality into a kingdom and now ranks on an equality with Servia, Bulgaria and other of her proud neighbors.

Yes, Montenegro has at last realized her ambition of years and become a kingdom. And Prince Nicholas, the beloved ruler, is no longer Prince Nicholas, but is entitled to be called king or czar. All of which momentous changes have been brought about by the simple act of Nicholas in proclaiming the change in the style of government to mark the golden jubilee of his reign. He came to throne fifty years ago today. Of course, the little principality could not have been elevated to a kingdom without the consent of the European powers. But the latter could hardly withhold their approval in the case of Montenegro after they had permitted all the other Balkan princes to assume the dignity of kingship. And so, when Prince Nicholas notified the kings of Great Britain and Italy, and the emperors of Russia, Austria and Germany that he proposed to make the change they acquiesced, though doubtless they would have preferred to have things in the little country go on as they were.

The new king was born Oct. 7, 1841, and on Nov. 8, 1869, was married to Milena Petrovna Vukotich, daughter of Peter Vukotich, senator and vice president of the council of State. The sons are: Prince Danilo, heir to the throne; Prince Mirko and Prince Peter. One Montenegro princess is the present queen of Italy, and another now would be queen of Serbia but for her premature death, while three other daughters of the new king are the Grand Duchesses Miliza of Russia, the Duchess Anastasia of Leuchtenburg, and Princess Anna of Battenberg, respectively.

The new kingdom has only 3,680 square miles (just half the size of Wales) to support the title. Though practically free and self-governing for the last five centuries, it was only in 1878 that the powers recognized the independence of Montenegro. Up to thirty years earlier it had been an ecclesiastical State under the government of the vladika or prince-bishop, whose combination of secular and sacred rule illustrated the divine right of kings. Since 1696, however, the reins of power had been vested in the Petrovitch Njegos family, which celebrated its bicentenary in 1896.

Montenegro is the thirteenth kingdom to come into existence within the world in the last hundred years. Six of these kingdoms—the Netherlands, Bavaria, Saxony, Wurtemberg, Westphalia and Hanover—were given birth as the result of the Napoleonic wars. Belgium was the result of the breaking off in 1831 of her union with Holland, Greece, Roumania, Bulgaria, Servia, and now Montenegro, are directly or indirectly the result of the breaking up of the Ottoman Empire in Europe. The revival of the kingdom of Norway five years ago was the climax of the national life against Sweden, with who had long been linked under dual rule.

Within the same period of time that has seen thirteen kingdoms come into existence, four kingdoms have vanished from the scene, namely, those of France, Naples, Westphalia and Hanover. France is the only one of the kingdoms to become a republic, which would seem to indicate that Europe still inclines decidedly towards monarchy rather than towards democracy.

THE THEATER

"The Goddess of Liberty."

While catchy music, pretty girls and scenery, lots of life and good management are absolute essentials to a comedy with music, to make it successful in this day and generation, talented and accomplished principals must also be provided before a play can command the earnest attention of the theatre-going public of today.

It was with that important fact in mind that Mr. Mort H. Slinger set about to organize the company which is to present "The Goddess of Liberty" at the opening of the Myers theatre Friday evening, Sept. 2. And it was because of the collection with which the selections were made that the play was so entirely successful when it was first produced in Chicago by Mr. Slinger and had to be kept in that city for a run of over one solid year. Even after that long time, it was only with the greatest effort that Mr. Slinger was able to get "The Goddess of Liberty" onto the road, that other cities might have an opportunity to witness what was called by one of the Chicago critics, "Chicago's best musical comedy."

Mort H. Slinger will present "The Goddess of Liberty" this season with the brilliant musical comedy star, Mr. Joseph H. Howard who has earned the sobriquet of "the silver voiced tenor" through his magnificent delivery of a song, his annunciation being perfect and clear, making the song interesting instead of the usual jumble of words.

Among those who will be in the support of Mr. Howard are, Violet Sutton, Marcello Montagna, Lydia Kane, Mrs. Gabe, Al. Deuler and many others. The celebrated Slinger show girls and dancers are in a superabundance and lend to small amount of support to the excellent principals who have been a universal hit everywhere. "The Goddess of Liberty" has been presented.

The entirely remodeled and re-decorated Myers Theatre will be welcomed by Janesville theatre goers. The new chandelier of the very latest and comfortable type, the new curtains, the new draperies and decorations all will add pleasure to the Theatre. Four new exits have been built, a large exit and double stairway from balcony to the bluff street entrance, two new rear exits to alley, and a new gallery exit with iron stairs from the gallery to bluff St.

MEXICO PLANS GREAT CELEBRATION TO COMMEMORATE ITS CENTENNIAL.

President Diaz, Chapultepec Castle and ex-Governor Curtis Guild of Massachusetts, who has been appointed special ambassador from the United States to Mexico.

(By Special Correspondent.)
Beverly, Mass.—President Taft has appointed ex-Gov. Curtis Guild of Massachusetts as special ambassador to the Mexican centennial, which will be held in Mexico City September 15. The other members of the commission appointed include Gen. Harrison Grey Oils of California, Justice James W. Gerard of New York and Col. C. A. Rook of Pittsburgh.

Mexico City.—President Diaz and the Mexican state department have expressed themselves as greatly pleased with the spirit of the United States in sending a special commission to the Mexican centennial to be held here September 15.

The centennial commemorates the independence of Mexico, but carries more closely to the battle of Lexington than to independence day in the United States. As a matter of fact, it commemorates the patriotic crusade inaugurated by Don Miguel Hidalgo Costilla on this date in 1810, a crusade which after many bloody battles resulted 11 years later in the abandonment of Mexico by Spain.

The Ticklemouse

—and his Sleepyland Adventures
By Roy Rutherford Bailey with Davy and Dorfy

The Hunt in the Haymow

GLOOM hung over the nursery of the Sleepyland twins. Davy had lost his watch.

"Seems me right," said his father, "for giving it to him till he was older. But it seemed absurd not to, when I had a gold one for best. It was only an old silver affair, but it made the little chap so happy!"

"It's just a shame he lost it," answered Mrs. Dover. "The twins haven't acted like themselves all day."

And when the merry mice awakened him at midnight, Davy's first thought was for his precious watch. "Can't you help me find it?" he asked, eagerly.

Willy Wishingmouse only laughed and looked wise as Davy went on to tell where the watch might have been lost. His uncle scowled at him and listened carefully. "That haymow frolic sounds as if it might be the answer to our puzzle," he said at last. "Let's slip out to the barn and see."

Willy laughed again. "A watch in a haymow—that'll be harder to find than a needle in a haystack, seems to me," he teased. He raised a paw to his listening ear. "Hark! What's that?"

The twins jumped. "What's what?"

"Ah-h!" Willy dropped his paw, as if disappointed. "I thought I heard the bed tick!"

They stole out of the quiet house and searched carefully around in the hay. Old Prince switched his tail uneasily in the stall below, every little noise sounding loud and strange to the twins in the dark hayloft.

Finally the Ticklemouse crawled up on a creaking raft and opened a little window so the moon shone in, and went on searching. "Guess it's no use," he said at last. "I don't know where else to look—do you, Willy? Mercy on us, what's that?"

For there came a scratching, scuffling noise, as if some sharp-clawed beast were sliding down the barn roof, catching now and then where the shingles were soft. The Ticklemouse stood stiff with terror, and their hair rose on end when, with a rustle of the big elm that grew close up to the eaves, the prowler suddenly stood out against the moon—who but old black Taft!

"It's the cat!" squealed Willy. "Run!" squealed his uncle. And in a twinkling the twins found themselves alone, while Taft, their fat old monster, stood staring at them through the window.

SHORTHAND

Gregg Shorthand Wins

First in Speed, First in Legibility, First in Accuracy

FIRST IN EVERY REQUIREMENT that can be placed upon a system of shorthand.

At the International Speed Contest held in Washington, D. C., this year GREGG SHORTHAND won FIRST, SECOND, and THIRD places. This in competition with the representatives of all the leading systems of shorthand.

World's Record Established

The winner EXCEEDED the best previous record, on non-court matter in the International Contests for the Miner Medal, by 23 words per minute.

The winner of second place was 18 years of age, had been a writer of shorthand only 18 months before the contest took place, and made the best record ever made by one of his age and experience.

The winner of third place was 18 years of age, had been a writer of shorthand less than two years before the contest took place, and established a WORLD'S RECORD FOR ACCURACY—99.410 per cent perfect.

Gregg Shorthand was taught in only 60 schools 8 years ago. It is now taught in over one thousand schools or more than any other three systems combined.

A system of shorthand that attains such a marvelous popularity must be based on merit. Why has Gregg Shorthand become the leading shorthand system? Because:

It is based on correct principles.

It is the simplest system to learn.

It is the easiest to write.

It is the most legible of all.

It has made records for combined speed and legibility that have been unequalled.

If you desire to become an efficient stenographer able to compete with the best in your profession, you should study Gregg Shorthand. You should study it in a school that specializes in Gregg Shorthand.

We have a list of manufacturers using our graduates who depend upon us altogether to furnish their office help. We are always in need of young people of ambition and backbone from whom to make this help. We SECURE positions for our students when they have COMPLETED OUR COURSES. We do not hold them for weeks on final examinations before doing so. We do not need to. We have no catchy, worthless guarantees to crawl out of. We have helped our students to SUCCESS in the past. We can help you. Call, write or phone the JANESVILLE BUSINESS COLLEGE.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.
You may think that you've done quite the best that you can.
You may think that you tried every possible plan.
You may plug on, and hug on, and cling like a leech.
And consider success after all's out of reach.
But when you are bluest is time to try a new plan.
The moment has come to display your real strength.
When the wall's right behind you,
And fate seems to bind you,
Make one more good effort, perhaps you may win—
Make one more endeavor, you may burst right in—
So long as you're breathing
There's hope for achieving
So long as you're standing you're still on your feet;
So long as you're power fight through the last hour;
Until you are buried you've not met defeat.
—Herbert Kaufman, in Chicago Record-Herald.

The little loves a fighter, and how but little time for a quitter, yet the highway of life is lined with men who have become discouraged early in the race and are either drifting as derelicts or mired in simply an existence because ambition has been permitted to slumber until the fires of energy have gone out.
Much is said, nowadays, about the equal distribution of property and many people who lack the disposition to sacrifice and accumulate are filled with envy because their neighbors are more prosperous.
The fact is ignored that fifty-two per cent of the population of the country are taxpayers, while a liberal percentage of the balance are savings bank depositors or patrons of life insurance companies.
The man who owns his home, whether in the town or country, belongs to what is called as the capitalistic class, just the same as the merchant or manufacturer, and to him the rights of property are just as sacred.
The boy on the farm may become weary of his environment, and the narrow horizon, which shuts him in, may grow irksome with familiarity, but the nation presents an array of contented farmers, who would be long in discovering that they had a grievance but for the strident voice of some ambitious agitator.
The canopy which covers the farm, touches the horizon only a few miles away in any direction, and the hills and valleys, richly endowed by nature, are restful landmarks which memory cherishes to the verge of time.

The boy who forsook the farm comes back to the old homestead in mature life to breathe the free air of the open country, for he has discovered that no horizon is quite so narrow, or no outlook less promising, than the cramped environment of the great city.

He knows that 20 per cent of our population is found in the cities, and that multitudes of these people live from hand to mouth, destitute of hope and ambition. If the children of this class ever breathe the fresh air of the country, it is through the philanthropy of some kind-hearted eccentric.

He also knows that vice and crime are the common heritage of these crowded environments, and that while physical development is dwarfed, the moral nature is being polluted.

The cities are not only hotbeds of socialism and anarchy, and centers of riots on account of labor disturbances, but they are crowded with discouraged people, who feel that the fates are against them.

The man who attempted the life of Mayor Gaynor of New York, the other day, was neither a socialist nor an anarchist. The dastardly deed was not long promulgated and was not influenced by organization.

The would-be-assassin was "down on his luck" and proposed to "take revenge on the man" held responsible. His vision was so narrow that he failed to recognize the call of the wide open world inviting tollers in almost every department of work.

In a western town, the other day, a farmer paid the fines on nine men in custody, and took them home to work in the harvest field. The man Gallagher was not dependent on the city of New York for employment, and his hands would be clean today had he turned to honest toil in any channel.

The gambling spirit possesses the American people in large degree. Not satisfied with the game of chance which surrounds every line of business, including the farm, we prefer gold bricks a long way from home, to a safe investment near at hand.

The mine and rubber plantation schemes have been succeeded by a mania to become real estate owners, and wide awake promoters have come to the surface like mushrooms in the night.

The waste places of the west and northwest are rapidly being taken up by men who know how to redeem them and make them blossom like the roses and the ambition of practical farmers to enlarge these possessions, is being satisfied.

The government, every now and then, lends a hand by conducting a land lottery where the chances for a prize are less than one to one hundred, but no one complains.

People who haven't money enough to buy a Texas farm, or travel across the continent with a government lottery ticket, gratify ambition with a ten dollar investment in the Everglades swamps of Florida, or in the truck districts scattered over the state.

The bait which attracts these people is the easy payment plan and the alluring prospects for making money on a garden patch which looks well on paper.

The place for truck gardening and intensified farming is in the north and not in the south, 1,000 miles from market, where the railroad charge $200 per car and less than carload rates are prohibitive.

A Kansas City paper engaged a gardener, two years ago, to demonstrate what could be done with one acre of land. Crops were rotated from May till November and a record of product and sales published at the close of the season. The acre yielded something over $1,800 in cash and the work was done by a man and a boy mornings and evenings.

A traveling man, in the employ of the Standard Oil Co., left the road eighteen months ago and engaged in trucking at his home in Arlington Heights, near Chicago.

His house had a large cellar which he utilized for mushroom beds which produced a crop of 1,200 pounds, sold in the Chicago market at sixty cents per pound, between November and May.

These men had money enough to buy a sawgrass island in the Everglades country, with the snakes and alligators thrown in, but they also had sense enough to invest it near their own doorstep.

Money enough has gone out of Janesville during the past decade to double the capital stock in all the home industries, and secure and equip as many more.

But what has all this to do with the discouraged people? Nothing, perhaps, except to suggest that money and energy is often wasted by misdirected zeal, and as a result the class of malcontents is constantly being enlarged.

The small investor is never a good loser and when misfortune comes, discouragement follows and he soon finds himself in the down and out class.

The time to accumulate is in the early stages of the journey, but the time to speculate never comes to the average mortal.

Thrift and economy are Christian graces, and if generally practiced the land would be redeemed without the aid of the agitator and much-rake reformer.

And a Vacation Train, Maybe.
"Gracious!" exclaimed Mrs. Goodley, "just listen to that clergyman! I'm positive he's swearing. Evidently he's missed his vocation."
"No," replied her husband. "I think it was his train."—The Catholic Standard and Times.

FOND MEMORIES. I dream, and remember the things that occurred in the far away past. How well I can picture the home I was born in, the kitchen, the hallway, the dark narrow hall; the old clock that rang an alarm in the morning; the cheap wooden paddle that hung on the wall; that plain wooden paddle, that long-handled paddle, that trusty old paddle that hung on the wall! Then I was a wayward young lad and a mischievous, and given to tricks that were foolish, and vain; and father would say to me: "Why do you give us, and fill our fond hearts with a cream-colored pain?" The life you are leading long since has disgraced you, and filled all our bosoms with wormwood and gall; I see very plainly I'll have to lambaste you—

Then down came the paddle that hung on the wall; that cheap willow paddle, that unvarnished paddle, that three-cornered paddle that hung on the wall. Then all of our helpful and well-meaning neighbors, whose lives were too barren of pleasure and glees, would pause for a time from their pastimes and labors, to hear that old paddle connecting with me. And O how they chortled and giggled and laughed, when hearing me let out an agonized howl! "Twice little they recked that my life was embittered by that wooden paddle that hung on the wall; that long-handled paddle, that trusty old paddle, that three-cornered paddle that hung on the wall."

Heart to Heart Talks.
By EDWIN A. NYE.

WHAT WILL PEOPLE SAY?
A decent respect for the opinion of mankind is a proper thing, and sometimes it may be well enough to consider what people may say. But there is a limit.

There are those who make themselves vulnerable by the overbearing fear of public comment. They regulate their conduct according to the dictates of the neighbors.

There are some who will pinch and scrape and deny themselves the ordinary home comforts in order to appear well in society. These are constantly putting their lives to the test by asking—

What will people say?
Others in like manner will scrimp themselves and put the family on short rations to pay for a party or a musicale or a reception. They will make expenditures out of all proportion to their means, because they ask, if they do not do so—

What will people say?
As a matter of fact, people probably will say after they are gone from the entertainment: "They cannot afford it. How foolish!"

Newspaper folk know that sometimes Mrs. So-and-so will send a society person to the paper telling how the family will spend its vacation at the seaside or in the mountains when, as a matter of fact, the family goes but a few miles out into the country.

Silly humbugs!
Let people say what they will. Live your own life in your own way and snap your fingers at persons who would criticize you for not living beyond your income or in the manner dictated by artificial conventions.

Take care of your own first. Let outsiders await your convenience. What will people say?
They will say something, whatever you do. But probably they will have a better opinion of you if you attend to your own business, neglect no proper duty and hold up your chin. At least they will respect you, which they will not do if you try to appear to be what you are not.

What will people say?
The fearless interrogatory continually arises to the lips of many super-sensitive folk who make themselves miserable or ridiculous because of it. Live your own life decently, uprightly, and let people say what they will.

Keep in Mind Always that the Cash Store saves money on everything you buy, either in lower prices or greater quantities at regular prices.

BECAUSE it buys everything for cash, and cash gets the pick of the markets at lowest prices. Any manufacturer would rather sell for cash than credit.

BECAUSE we have no losses occasioned by poor credits that we must make up on regular patrons by adding additional margins to our prices.

BECAUSE we eliminate much expensive bookkeeping due to cash selling.

BECAUSE we sell for cash we have but one price, and that is THE LOWEST. One woman's dollar buys just as much here as her neighbor's.

No petty favoritism and sneaking off prices. You get our LOWEST price first hand.

Signing Bonds is Dangerous

Have you noticed that nearly every day somewhere there is a defalcation? Or breach of trust? Sometimes it happens that men who are honest and bear good reputation, through misfortune, become involved and their bondsmen are called upon to make good.

Duty to yourself, your family and the community demands that you refrain from becoming surety for other people.

In this day and age there are companies organized for relieving you of taking these chances. When asked to sign a bond, don't be a "good fellow," but inform your friend that corporate surety is the best and does not place him under obligations. Offer this suggestion to him; that he can get bonds, for any requirement, at a nominal cost from

To the Voters of Rock County

I wish to thank you for the interest you are showing in my candidacy for the office of Register of Deeds.

If you are not familiar with my qualifications I will say that I began school teaching and left this work to accept a position in a railway office, where I worked ten years as bookkeeper and agent.

I have held my present position as town clerk for the past ten years, and during the last four years have spent the greater part of each year working as bookkeeper for the Rock County Sugar Co., my firm requiring the balance of my time.

This office experience will undoubtedly prove a valuable help to me in discharging the duties of Register of Deeds should I be elected to that office.

Let me urge you to attend the Primary Election Tuesday, September 6, 1910, and ask you to call the attention of your friends to the importance of voting on Primary Day.

Women Supposed to Be at Seashore Watch Men When Shot.

Tulsa, Okla., Aug. 12.—As the result of a shooting affray in the presence of a score of Tulsa society women in the Tanager clubhouse, six miles east, W. O. Graybill, a produce merchant of Kansas City, was probably fatally wounded; J. J. Buck, a local capitalist, has a bullet in his shoulder; a waiter has a bullet hole through his hand, and the police are looking for Walter Pawcut, manager of the club. W. O. Fleming, a state law enforcement officer, declares that practically everybody in the place was intoxicated. Later the police raided the clubhouse, and found a number of prominent women whose husbands thought they were at the seashore.

Indiana Attorney General Asks Commerce Commission to Act.

Washington, Aug. 12.—Complaint against the rate charged for upper berths on Pullman sleeping cars has been lodged with the interstate commerce commission by the state of Indiana.

The attorney general for the state in setting forth its complaint declared upper berths are incompressible, practically null for comfort and that the rates for them are now highly unreasonable and should be reduced. He considers that an upper berth should not cost the traveler more than one-half of the charge made for a lower berth.

RINGLING'S CIRCUS ATTRACTED CROWDS TO THE CITY TODAY

Parade Was Excellent and Was Enjoyed by Thousands on the Streets.

The thousands of people who saw Ringling Brothers' big parade this morning thoroughly enjoyed the pageant that passed along the streets.

From the great twenty-four horse band chariot in the lead to the tall and nearly a mile away, it was one chain of excellent attractions.

Some of the remarkable features were teams of camels, zebras, llamas and elephants, which, it has been supposed that the zebra could not be broken to harness. There were many number of ten and twelve horse teams.

Some of the remarkable features were teams of camels, zebras, llamas and elephants, which, it has been supposed that the zebra could not be broken to harness. There were many number of ten and twelve horse teams.

The Ringling Brothers were generous in the free display of their wild animals. Many of their cages were thrown open, and in them were seen various rare specimens of jungle life.

The floats, the chariots and other display vehicles were elaborate in design and workmanship. A section of tiny floats, drawn by diminutive ponies and grouped with the characters of child-romance, were particularly attractive.

Everything was aplek and span in its freshness. The flags, banners, costumes, drapings and various other trappings were costly and the vehicles looked as though they had just come from the foreign shops.

The performance is now in progress under the big tents. The Schuman performing horses, the Arthur Saxton trio of strong men, the thrilling arduous horse, the telephoning elephants, the Mexican wizard, the Cottrell-Powell equestrians, the Lorch family of acrobats, the famous Klark-Kohn aerialists and the Alex family of trapeze artists are but a few of those who give the show distinction. The Ringling Brothers have easily outdone their past records, which is saying much for they have always maintained the highest and the best circus in the country.

The clowns deserve much of praise. There are fifty of them and they are funny from start to finish. This afternoon's audience was kept in constant laughter.

The menagerie is a wonderful place to spend an hour. It has been out-lacked until it is practically complete. Those who have followed Col. Roosevelt through Africa will find there many of the rare animals that fell before the expedition's rifle in living counterpart. The star of the zoo is Darwin, the man-eating lion. Darwin is the most remarkable animal ever exhibited. He is a better bicycle rider than any boy in America and he does equally well on roller skates. There are many more curious specimens to be seen not found elsewhere in America.

The doors for tonight's show will open at 7 o'clock and the performance will begin at 8. During the preliminary hour Albert C. Sweet's military band will give an operatic concert. The usual crowd was on hand this morning to see the show continue. Its size was a source of wonder. The train came in four sections. From here the show went to Madison where it spends Sunday.

CARE OF HORSES IN THE HOT WEATHER

Those That Suffer Most Are Sick or Soft—Care Should Be Given Them.

During periods of excessive heat, when work horses in the fields or on the streets are liable to suffer from sunstroke or "overheating," much may be done by the owner to lessen the likelihood of an attack. Affected horses are usually those that are sick or soft, and every possible means should be taken to prevent indigestion and to fit the animal to withstand labor in hot weather, says the Country Gentleman.

Horses and other four-legged creatures are more apt to suffer than man when the weather is hot. During hot weather, horses should be worked lightly, and the common form of sunstroke, indicated by dullness, sluggishness, panting at light labor, sweating in stable, and the changeable character of the manure which is normal some days and again clay-colored, mucous covered, or on undigested, offensive mass. When so affected it is extremely dangerous to work the animal in extreme hot weather.

A slight change in food, more care in feeding, rest and simple curatives are required in such cases and preventive measures may be adopted as follows: Feed hay night and morning only; give drinking water before meals and in small sips often when at work; prefer clean, soft water to that rendered "hard" by the presence of lime salts, which tend to derange the stomach, and allow a sufficient time for rest and mastication of food; groom the skin thoroughly once daily; feed sound food; avoid corn in summer, as it is heating; prefer sound old oats, which require water of tissue and promote calm and endurance; avoid sudden changes of food, and do not feed heated, green grass or clover.

Change the stable daily, ventilate perfectly, screen doors and windows, remove manure piles from the vicinity of the stable; feed fresh food each meal. Shade the horse's head when at work, but avoid a heavy, wet sponge; if possible do not work horses abreast, as the middle horse suffers thereby and is the most liable to sunstroke. Where such combination cannot be avoided, change horses often to afford as much relief as possible. Choose the coolest hours for work, and change teams often during sultry, moist weather when thunderstorms are prevalent.

FLAMES DO GREAT DAMAGE IN LINE CITY YESTERDAY

Loss Resulting From Destruction of C. P. Smith Livery Estimated at $30,000.

Between $20,000 and $30,000 worth of property was destroyed at Beloit yesterday afternoon when the C. P. Smith livery barn on Broad street, all the harnesses, horses and all the harnesses and other livery stock including hay, was burned to the ground. The fire is thought to have been the result of spontaneous combustion and broke out about four o'clock. Vast clouds of smoke rolled over the city and there was the greatest excitement on the streets.

For a time it seemed as though the entire business block and other adjacent buildings would be destroyed but hard work by the fire department saved them. Hanley Bros' fruit store was damaged to the amount of $1,000.

POLICE ARRESTED TWO CHICAGO "DIPS" THIS AFTERNOON

Pickpockets Dragged From Street Car and Lodged in Jail—Caught With "The Goods."

The Chicago "dips," giving the names of William and Jacob Polaski, are now lodged in jail, will attest to the watchfulness of the Janesville police. The two pickpockets were hauled from a city car this afternoon at ten minutes to two while playing their trade and were caught with "the goods," one watch and $5.

Following a complaint that several "leather" trips, Chief Appleby drove along side the packed car while it was standing at the intersection of Milwaukee and Main streets while Officer Manning ambushed his way through passengers and seized two whom the conductor stated had made several round trips. One of the suspects resisted while being searched and tried to make his "getaway" but was felled by the officer with a heavy right swing.

When searched at the station, the watch and money were found as well as extra caps, which the men carried for emergencies, as means of evading detection. They gave the names of William and Jacob Polaski and stated that they lived at 1729 Adams St., Chicago. According to the conductor, there were three men in the gang but the other made good his escape in the mixup that followed the arrest. It is believed that he carried the money as only six dollars were found on the other two.

Up to a late hour this afternoon, there were no complaints of houses being robbed but it is probable that the effects of this nature will not be reported until late in the afternoon when the residents return from the circus grounds.

EXTRA CARE TAKEN TO PROTECT PUBLIC

Police Are Vigilant in Watching After Welfare of the Visitors to the Circus.

Thousands from Rock county, Janesville and surrounding cities thronged the streets today, banded themselves along the line of march when the parade passed and then after a majority had made an ineffectual attempt to find seats in the restaurants, wended their way on foot, in wagons, buses and automobiles to the Fair grounds where the "biggest show on Earth" pitched its tents this morning.

Every road entering the city was filled with carriages for hours preceding the parade while litch barns and livery stables were crowded throughout the day. Every train on both roads was crowded. The seven coaches on the special from Evansville and the special train from Monroe, both of which arrived during the early forenoon, were filled to the doors and even the platforms were crowded.

To handle the crowds was a problem that taxed every faculty of the police department. Six special policemen were sworn in for the day and stationed at the railway stations, the show grounds at the street intersections where the crowds threatened to block traffic. Special precautions were taken as reports from Rockford and Sterling showed the show exhibited during the past few days were to the effect that a large number of crooks attempted to work in those cities where the parade and two performances were on.

Even the street cars were crowded while those who were unable to secure seats on these less expensive but uncomfortable means of transportation, almost mobbed the buses, hacks and automobiles who were also engaged in the transportation business. Warned by the police, the drivers observed in a measure the speed ordinance while climbing the Milwaukee St. hill, but in spite of careful driving, the throngs of pedestrians and carriages resulted in a number of narrow escapes.

At three o'clock this morning the first of the four circus trains arrived in the city from the North-Western from Rockford and began to unload at the Five Points. The other trains arrived at 5:10, 6:15 and 7:05. Two of the sections were late as a result of delay in loading at Rockford where the trains were sidetracked in a bad place.

POSTPONE GAMES ON ACCOUNT OF CIRCUS

Commercial League Contests for Today Called Off—Belvidere Athletics at York's Sunday.

Today's games in the Commercial league have been postponed owing to the fact that there is a counter-attraction in town, the circus, and it was felt by the board of managers of the league that the attendance at the games would not be large enough to make it worth while for the players to engage in the contests. The postponed games will be played on some afternoon within the next two weeks.

Good Game Sunday

The fans, however, will be able to appease their desire for a good game on Sunday, when the Janesville Athletics play the Belvidere team at York's Park. Belvidere comes with a strong team and the recommendation of having a good article in the way of the national masthead. The Athletics play top-notch ball and the match promises to be lively and interesting. The lineup are announced as follows:

Belvidere: Hall, c; Radcliff, p; Hill, 3b; O'Brien, 1b; Porter, 2b; Miller, 3b; Merriman, 1b; Carle, cf; Hughes, rf; Blodgett, sub.

The letter, containing a detailed description of the man wanted, arrived last night and the entire force was given instructions to look out for him. In spite of the great crowds on the street, Officer Manning spotted his man and took him in tow. Upon examination, about $54 was found on his person.

Armfield denies the charge made against him but is being held until the arrival of the Iowa sheriff who is expected tomorrow.

DOES NOT REALIZE HIS LIFE SENTENCE

Convicted Negro Murderer Satisfied to go to Prison For Life Says He Must Live Anyway.

What imprisonment for life really means began this morning to dawn on Isaac Rice, the negro murderer, as he peered through the bars of his cell, the second story of the county jail and watched the circus parade over the Court street bridge. Stretched on his canvas cot, he gazed wistfully at the passing show, and listened to the faint strains of the blaring music. Not that the prospect of spending life in prison depressed him greatly. He was fairly cheerful. But he hated to think that in the future he would not be able to see the crowds and go where he pleased. When asked how he felt, Rice made the following astonishing statement:

"Ald! just as soon have life as five years. Ah have to live anyway."

In spite of his brave front, the negro evidently hopes for a pardon. He frequently discusses the possibility of raising enough money after serving a few years to secure his release. No one has yet taken trouble to destroy this hope.

Sheriff Scholthel has changed his plans with regard to taking the negro to Waupun immediately and will not leave until Monday. In the meantime, strict precautions have been taken to prevent any attempt at escape on his part and he has been allowed to talk to no one except officers of the law.

Plans for the coming Fourth of July celebration in Janesville to arrange for which the United Spanish War Veterans appointed a committee of the industrial and the Commercial Club a committee of two are now being formulated. The joint committee met in the office of the Industrial Club in the Jackson block and elected Carl Buchholz chairman, John Gahner of the Industrial club treasurer and L. J. DeArmond secretary. A communication from the Blakeley Mill Posting Company offering the use of their billboards free to the committee to boom the coming celebration was received and put on file with them.

The committee have mapped out plans to invite the entire First regiment of Wisconsin National Guards, the Milwaukee Light Battery and Troop A of the Wisconsin cavalry, and if possible secure a detachment of regulars from Ft. Sheridan to take part in a sham battle. The United States War Veterans state campment will be held here at the same time and this will bring several hundred additional visitors to the city. LOCATED IN THE MOUNTAINS

Visited Lake Tahoe Near Reno Just Before Returning to Janesville
For A Visit.William W. Watt, who with his wife and daughter, are visiting Janesville friends, is most enthusiastic over the western country where he now makes his home. While loyal to Janesville Mr. Watt has visited many of the wonder spots of the west and describes their beauty in a graphic manner when talking of them. Just before coming east he visited Lake Tahoe which is one of the biggest inland summer resorts of the western country and his account of its wonders follows."Picture a lake over a mile above sea level, 20 miles long, 13 miles wide,
and in places over 2000 feet deep, entirely surrounded by snow-capped mountains rising in rugged grandeur 4000 feet from its water edge, the entire shore line thickly covered with mammoth cedar and fir trees, the water as clear as a crystal and excellent for drinking, and you will conceive some idea of Lake Tahoe.This body of water is as famous throughout the west as Lake Geneva is in the middle east.Lake Tahoe is forty miles from Reno and is part in the state of Nevada and part in California. From a scenic standpoint this lake is as different from your Lake Geneva as white is from black. The beauty and diversity of color in the water of Lake Tahoe
is such as can be seen in only Switzerland lakes. Its colorings change with the depth, and the depth with the variations of light and shade which sweep across the lake.I visited this wonderful lake just before leaving and as this was my first outing at a mountain lake the impression gained will be everlasting.
The waters in this vast lake are supplied by melting snow from the surrounding mountains and even during the warm months of July and August the very tops of the mountains still retain mammoth banks of snow. In fact the one great draw back to this lake is that the water is too cold so that it takes a man of iron nerve to muster up enough courage to go in swimming. Hundreds go in every afternoon but remain but a few minutes.
Lake Tahoe is considered one of the grandest Alpine lakes in the world and lies in a regular depression of the Sierra Mountains. The lake was discovered on February 14, 1841 by Captain Fremont when crossing the Sierra.
The most beautiful part of the lake lies in California. The best trout fishing in the land is to be had here at any time. The water is so clear that objects can be easily seen to a depth of one hundred feet. The outlet is the Truckee river, which,
after a hundred miles over the Nevada
desert finds its way into Pyramid
lake in California.Tahoe has every variety of shore line, from abrupt crags rising hundreds of feet above the water, and desolate, rock-bound, boulder-strewn shores, to the most charming of sand beaches and placid bays with endless proceedings of great pines to the very water's edge. Each moment of the seventy-two mile trip around this lake is filled with an ever changing panorama of giant peaks, snow fields, refect forests, lights and shadows, to be seen in but few places in this country.Although this lake may seem to you folks hundreds of miles from civilization, just allow me to tell you that never in the history of Lake Geneva or Crater Lake has a hotel been erected that compares to the Tavern at this Lake Tahoe. This costly hotel accommodates 750 guests and the hotel alone are estimated at 250 within good majority Japanese. The Casino, or dance hall is 200 feet from the hotel and cost alone $50,000. The interior fittings of the hotel proper are in keeping with a mountain place. The dining hall cost a small fortune to furnish, the fifty elk horn chandeliers being a sight at night worth traveling many miles. The company that owns this hotel also controls their own railroad which runs out of the mountains to the main line of the Southern Pacific railroad. The hotel management also own the largest steamer on the lake which was taken over the mountains at a great expense in sections. At the water edge it was then placed together. Everything at these mountain resorts is expensive. Over the mountains you are obliged to pay railroad fare in excess of anything in the East. All meals are one dollar each and any sort of a soft drink is
"two bits" or twenty-five cents.But the proper way to enjoy outdoor life in this part of the far West is to "rough it." In other words form a camping party of four and get into a covered wagon and go it gypsy fashion. Hundreds like out about with their blankets over their back and with a frying pan and enough food to last a few days. That is the true method of enjoying mountain life.Our second day at Lake Tahoe we left about early in the morning to travel a distance of six miles to Fallen Leaf Lake. This lake is three miles long and is but one of twenty that you can see after climbing to the top of one of the largest mountains.
On the way through the woods we encountered any number of grouse, deer and last, but not least, a small brown bear that hurried over fallen trees as soon as he caught his first glimpse of us. And it was a good thing that he did as it saved me the trouble. This was the first real wild bear that I have ever encountered and I tell you that regardless of his small size he did not look any too good to me.On reaching Fallen Leaf Lake we found here a beautiful stretch of blue water alive with mountain trout.
Along the shore were numerous fishing stands in camp all making a busy scene by fishing. These Nevada Indians certainly believe in having the women do the work and at every camp that we passed the old ducks would be pulling their pipes while their wives would be either busily engaged in cleaning fish, making baskets or gathering up fire wood. All the land aboutthis lake is Government land and any one can camp there free of expense.
Thousands of these Indians are kept at the expense of Uncle Sam at a two-cent a day rate. They live in the lake and every summer they have their reservation and enjoy themselves at this lake returning late in the fall. And where can you beat that kind of life. Early settlers here say that they never heard of an Indian dying of consumption and that ninety per cent of them live to be over eighty years of age. At another spot we encountered four little Indian boys each equipped with bow and arrows. They had been a chipmunk and all four were busily engaged in trying to see who would be the first to claim the game. Finally one of the dark skinned youths planted his arrow head in the side of the tiny squirrel and he came tumbling to the ground much to the amusement of the boys.Everywhere in the Tahoe region are magnificent forests. Even the trunks of a century ago have now a luxuriant growth. Fire is the only dread and curse to this mountain timber region.
On thousands of the mammoth trees
the Government has notices posted making it a most serious offense to start a fire and not extinguish it before breaking camp. The different trees are not all found in same sections. They grow at certain elevations. On the way up any of the mountains you encounter alpine bear-grass, fir, yellow pines, cedars and sagebrush. Flowers are abundant and over a thousand different varieties flourish in this region. Everywhere are chipmunks and squirrels, sociable little animals, but annoying to the harder of the camper. In the rocky places is the huge squirrel-like the ground hog while high upon the mountain side is found the little coney or rock rabbit. At feeding time duels are plentiful.Fallen Leaf lake was formed by a great glacier of the ice age, which flowed down Glen Alpine canyon sculpting out a bed 400 feet below the present water level, depositing great lateral moraines, and then, after reaching within three miles of Tahoe halted
for a period and built up a vast terminal dam which holds the water 100 feet higher than the big lake. One mile from this interesting little lake is located Desolation Valley; not really desolate, but rather stupendous in grand, where a dozen ice sheets coming down from the score of lakes of fantastic outline, rounded the hillsides and piled up great moraines. President David Starr Jordan says that this is the most accessible and grandest piece of ice sculpturing in the world.
In summer the valley is brightened by myriads of flowers, and all the lakes, big and small, teem with trout. In the Mount Tallac region there are no less than sixty good sized lakes and one-half of them have been stocked with trout that rise to the fly.THREE INJURED BY

scious and Daughters Bruised
When Rig Upset.

(Special to the Gazette.)

Monroe, Wis., Aug. 12.—Mrs. Fred Benkert was seriously injured and her two daughters bruised in an accident here caused by the harness of their horse breaking. They were going down the Blumhain hill on their way to their home, a couple of miles north of town, when the harness broke loosing the hills down. Mrs. Benkert and one of her daughters pulled on the lines to stop the horse, which turned around tipping over the rig and throwing out the occupants. Mrs.
Benkert was picked up unconscious and remained so all night. The girls were able to get help. The injured woman was taken into the home of J.
C. Gillum and later he took them home in his automobile. Mrs. Benkert is in a serious condition and has a bad wound back of the head.
Athletic Ass'n. Disbanded.The high school athletic association has disbanded and has left debts that will aggregate $250. An effort was made to get the members of the team together, aside from those who graduated with the class of 1910, and have attended in the school this fall, but only one of last year's team consented to go back to school, hence there was no interest taken and the team has been dropped. A committee has been appointed to investigate the reasons
why the association disbanded.
The professor of the school acted as an advisor to the team's manager last year and all books and accounts of the team will be handed over to him.To Go to Sparta.

is nothing better than a coat or two of shellac.It is prepared at home by adding

it will dissolve in a few hours. Shell-

Mr. Auto Owner:

You'll Succeed in Reducing Your Tire Expense If You Bring Your Work to UsWhen you are sick you don't go to a grocer to get relief—you go to a doctor. Why?
Because he knows his business.It is just as senseless to take your tire trouble to a garage for repair. They can repair your car and do it right but they don't know a thing about tire repairs.

We receive work daily which is a direct result of poor work done elsewhere.

YOU CAN SAVE MONEY by bringing your tire work here. The best garages bring all their work to us. They realize they are BEST SERVING THEIR CUSTOMERS by doing so. They don't attempt to experiment with something they know nothing about.A doctor charges you for advice which is vital for health's sake. We give you FREE the ADVICE of a man SIX YEARS in the TIRE BUSINESS, and his advice is just as vital to your tires as a doctor's is to your health.

You will enjoy talking with a man who knows his business. IT WILL PAY YOU.

We are here to serve you.

If you would have your tire and tube repairing done RIGHT bring it to us or leave it at the Reed-Gage Auto Co. or Priellip Bros., as they bring all of their work to us.

"Overland," The Simple Car

The designers of the Overland have largely reduced the number of parts in a car. They have made one piece take the place of many.They have eliminated complexities, including the complex pump. They have made the operation of the car automatic.They have perfected the pedal control. One goes forward or backward, fast or slow, by simply pushing pedals. It is as natural as walking. A child can master the car in ten minutes.

They have made a car on which no expert is needed—a car which is almost trouble-proof.

A 25-horsepower Overland with 102-inch wheelbase sells for $1,000. A 40-horsepower Overland with 112-inch wheelbase sells for $1,250 with single rumble seat. The finest of the Overlands—called the Norton Overland—sells for $1,850. All prices include gas lamps and magnets.
